AIDS Project

Our "Evening of Education" on "Talking with Kids (or Parents) About AIDS" held on May 13th was a success. We'd like to thank Cheri Ellowitz Silver and the Religious Education Commission for their support and guidance in assisting us to bring together adults and teens to discuss AIDS and how to talk to peers and family members about it. We would also like to thank Ariel Schudson, who is now an AIDS educator with PEP/LA, for her presentation to the teens and Glenn Gaylord, an adult facilitator with PEP/LA and member of Being Alive Speakers Bureau for his work in organizing the program for the teens. We would also like to thank Dr. Mitch Golant and Susan Golant for their presentation to the adults on how to communicate with your children about AIDS and sexuality. A special thanks also goes to all of those people who helped organize and bake for this special event: Yoko Given, Marlayne Cohen and Sheri Langer.

A special note of thanks goes to Ava Bise and Kevin Flynn for the donation of foodbasket centerpieces from their daughter Emily's Bat Mitzvah on April 17th. If you would like more information about the types of food we can use for the AIDS Lunch Project, please call Enid Sperber at (213) 469-2224.

For more information about the AIDS Lunch Project call Sheri Langer at (213) 936-3944 or Jody Porter at (213) 466-1222. We visit the AIDS Outpatient Clinic at the USC County Medical Center every month. Bring your teenage children with you during the summer months and let them see a beautiful example of tzedakah.
